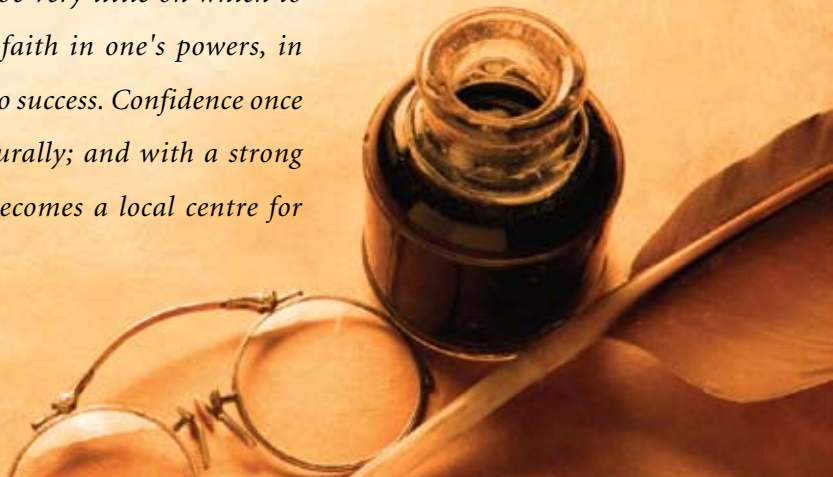
Osler's Notes


A man must have faith in himself to be of any use in the world. There may be very little on which to base it – no matter, but faith in one's powers, in one's mission is essential to success. Confidence once won, the rest follows naturally; and with a strong faith in himself a man becomes a local centre for its radiation.