

Dear Sir/Madam

My heart is filled with gratitude as I pen this letter. Thank you for your support towards my medical education. This sum of money is more than just a financial aid, but a great encouragement for me to carry on this journey of pursuing my medical studies.

I am currently a fourth year medical student doing my Obstetrics and Gynaecology posting. The past four years in medical school has been an exciting learning experience, almost similar to taking a roller coaster ride. It has brought me through many painful struggles and rewarding experiences. It has also opened my eyes to the needs of the real world and to see life in a different perspective.

Disease is more than just textbook knowledge to be memorised, and the practice of medicine is more than just sets of rigid protocols. Every patient is a different individual, many times carrying with them sad and painful stories.

It is such joy interacting with tutors, patients and other healthcare workers. From them, I've learnt much about life, and about the true meaning of medicine. I am greatly humbled and treasure these teachings.

I am indeed blessed, firstly to be offered the chance to study medicine, and secondly, to have many supporters like yourself who help me along the way. It is a great blessing to be counted as part of the big medical family and I thank you for your generous support, which has helped ease the financial burden off my household so that I may focus on my studies.

Take care and God bless.

Yours sincerely,
A grateful medical student
