

HOBBIT

The Hobbit 2010 Movie Awards

Well folks, its Oscars time again and that means it's also time for The Short One to rattle off his movie awards...

BEST SLEEPER HIT MOVIE

It's Complicated

This movie stars the slightly overweight Alec Baldwin who wants to look good in front of his ex-wife and decides to get liposuction done at an aesthetic clinic. Sadly, he doesn't wake up from this ordeal...

BEST THRILLER MOVIE

Duplicity

Clive Owen and Julia Roberts star in their roles as civil servants who are tasked to enact new laws to regulate doctors in a small country. Strangely, they decide to seek consultation from the Law Society instead of the medical professional bodies first. Only when there is great unhappiness does their boss step in to engage the medical profession.

BEST SCI-FI MOVIE

Star Trek

A couple of young trainees take control of a starship with big consequences. Strangely, they do well even when they weren't supervised or given protected time (minus the fact that the planet Vulcan blew up).

BEST GANGSTER MOVIE

Vengeance

French icon Johnny Hallyday stars as the killer in director Johnny To's movie, who guns down an entire family and ends up in death row. He later donates his kidneys to a rich businessman.

BEST DOCUMENTARY

District 9

This movie is about the private hospital site in District 9, which was auctioned off at record prices, and how doctors are now expected to pay an arm and a leg for the clinic space.

BEST ACTION MOVIE

Public Enemies

This big budget movie stars the H1N1 virus and the havoc it wrecked everywhere...

BEST BLOCKBUSTER MOVIE AND BEST SPECIAL EFFECTS

Avatar

This is about the medical education body from some big capitalist country that set up a parallel system in some small backward country. The natives in the small country are conned into believing that going through this system will enable them to be recognised for practice in the big country, only to realise that the system is not the real thing and they won't be recognised after all and those guys they have been talking to from the big country are just fake avatars.

BEST ACTOR AND SUPPORTING ACTOR Inglorious Basterds

Brad Pitt and Mike Myers star as long-suffering GPs who were sold expensive masks and given expired/very old Tamiflu in this movie about the recent pandemic. To top it off, the ambulance that was supposed to ferry the suspected flu patient off to the hospital takes four hours to arrive...

BEST LOCAL PRODUCTION The Blue Mansion

This movie is about a large step-down facility where morale is low, staff are poorly paid and just about everyone is dysfunctional... not to mention pornographic material is found in the boss' aide's flat.

BEST ANIMATED MOVIE Ice Age 3: Dawn of the Dinosaurs

An unsuspecting patient stumbles upon a bunch of GPs who are still not practicing aesthetics because they have been trapped under a glacier all these years.

BEST ROMANTIC COMEDY The Proposal

Sandra Bullock stars as a paediatrician in the public sector still waiting for the proposal from private healthcare companies to double/triple her salary by going into private practice.

BEST SEQUEL Transformers 2: Revenge of the Fallen

This story is about how a large regional hospital with a grand tradition tries to gain the upper hand by getting a medical school linked to it...

BEST SCREENPLAY Terminator Salvation

This is hopefully the final installment of the franchise – a lawyer/killer is sent to wipe out senior or high profile doctors in disciplinary proceedings after laws are changed. Thankfully, the lawyer sees the light and decides to be on the side of the doctors instead... whew...

BEST DIRECTOR Angels & Demons

This movie stars medical graduates from two different schools. Some are treated like angels and some are given hell by the authorities. But the conclusion is surprising... watch the movie to find out.

BEST ACTION CHOREOGRAPHY Bodyguards and Assassins

This movie features a bunch of doctors who want to protect patients from overcharging with some guideline for fees but in the end get wiped out by nasty civil servants from some competition body. Leon Lai armed with a steel fan really rocks...

BEST COMIC ADAPTATION Watchmen

A boutique medical school is set up ostensibly to produce clinician-scientists, MD-PhDs etc. A lot of folks are watching to see if this is how it's going to pan out...

BEST PROPS Up in the Air

George Clooney is appointed as a consultant to develop a massive national medical IT system. After many moons, nothing much is fixed and everything is still up in the air... Lots of extras and props lying around in the movie.

BEST MUSICAL This Is It

The late Michael Jackson stars as the WHO official who thought all hell was going to break loose with the H1N1 outbreak. Fortunately, the virus proved to be a whole lot less nasty than thought. Unfortunately, MJ doesn't quite make it eventually.

BEST LOW BUDGET MOVIE The Hangover

This low-budget hit features a lot of guys suffering from a hangover from excessive eating of brown rice after responding to official calls to eat more brown rice. The movie was shot on a shoestring budget and financed by the government.

MOVIE MOST PANNED BY CRITICS Old Dogs

John Travolta and Robin Williams star as two old surgeons who try to solve the medical profession's ethical problems by thinking lawyers will be of great help.

BIGGEST BOX-OFFICE BOMB 2012

A movie on how a country will adopt a residency system for all specialty training in 2012 with cataclysmic circumstances because there just aren't enough trainers and doctors to do the real job of seeing patients.

BEST SCRIPT Love Matters

The touching movie about how a patient is given the wrong chemotherapy dosage but decides to forgive her hospital and the staff involved. SMA
